JKM jamin tunai bantuan dimohon mangsa

Subang Jaya: Jabatan Kebajikan Masyarakat (JKM) memberi jaminan akan menunaikan sekecil-kecil bantuan yang dimohon setiap individu yang menjadi mangsa tragedi letupan paip gas bawah tanah di Putra Heights, baru-baru ini.

Menteri Pembangunan Wanita, Keluarga dan Masyarakat, Datuk Seri Nancy Shukri, mengakui hasil temu bual ketika sesi kaunseling dijalankan kaunselor JKM, ramai mangsa yang berada di pusat pemindahan sementara (PPS) memerlukan bantuan yang berbeza dan berbentuk peribadi.

Beliau berkata, antara barang yang perlu disegerakan untuk dihulurkan kepada mangsa ialah minyak angin, telefon bimbit, penapis udara dan keperluan wanita bagi ibu yang mempunyai bayi.

Katanya, sokongan kewangan juga perlu diberikan kepada beberapa mangsa bagi memudahkan pergerakan untuk ke sana sini.

"Dalam sesi kaunseling yang berlangsung kepada 353 orang, kita mengetahui apa yang diperlukan setiap daripada mereka dan dari situ kita mendapati keperluan mereka bukan bersifat menyeluruh tetapi secara individu.

"Ada yang terdesak memerlukan telefon dan ada yang memerlukan penapis udara kerana mempunyai anak autisme. Malah ada ibu yang memerlukan 'nursing bra' kerana masih mempunyai anak kecil.

"Kaunselor kita juga mendapati ada setengah mangsa hanya memerlukan minyak angin kerana pening berada di PPS. Ini semua kita akan santuni segera kerana itu keperluan masing-masing," katanya selepas melawat di PPS Masjid Putra Heights, di sini semalam.

Mengulas lanjut, Nancy juga berkata, JKM juga akan memberi bantuan berbentuk tunai khusus untuk mangsa yang memerlukan bantuan dalam pengurusan diri dan ahli keluarga.

"Contohnya, ada seorang mangsa yang mempunyai keseluruhan keluarga dirawat di hospital dan dia perlu berulang-alik ke hospital. Pastinya dia memerlukan wang," katanya.

Dalam perkembangan sama, beliau berkata, Yayasan Kebajikan Negara sudah mengumpul sejumlah RM29,533 untuk disumbangkan dalam tragedi itu.

Putra Heights disaster victims' welfare takes priority - Selangor MB

By Bernama - April 8, 2025 @ 12:02am

KUALA LUMPUR: The welfare of the victims of the gas pipeline disaster in Putra Heights, Subang Jaya remains a priority, with various efforts being carried out including additional contributions and rental assistance.

Selangor Menteri Besar Datuk Seri Amirudin Shari said that the contributions of RM5,000 and RM2,500 from Petronas are in addition to the assistance previously announced by Prime Minister Datuk Seri Anwar Ibrahim.

He said the contributions, based on the level of house damage, mean that victims whose homes were completely destroyed will receive a total of RM10,000, while those with partially damaged homes and tenants will each receive RM5,000.

Additionally, Amirudin announced that the state government would provide rental assistance of RM2,000 to affected victims for six months, depending on the repair period of each home, involving a financial implication of RM7.4 million.

Following the incident, which occurred on the morning of the second day of Hari Raya (April 1), Amirudin said the estimated value of loss and damage to affected residences was about RM65.4 million, with 437 houses confirmed as the final number of residences impacted.

He said the figure was based on inspections conducted by a technical team led by the Malaysian Fire and Rescue Department, confirming that 81 houses were completely destroyed with structural damage exceeding 40 percent, 81 houses were partially damaged, 57 were affected but not burnt, while 218 houses were not affected.

Selangor Deputy State Secretary (Development) and Director of the State Economic Planning Unit, Datuk Johary Anuar, has also been appointed to lead the Recovery Phase, including restoration methods for homes, roads, infrastructure, and public facilities.

Meanwhile, the Prime Minister's Political Secretary Datuk Azman Abidin expressed hope that more corporate companies would come forward to contribute to the victims to help ease their burden, despite various forms of assistance already provided by the government and related agencies.

He said that as of today, a total of RM1.4 million had been channelled to affected victims, including immediate aid from the Implementation Coordination Unit (ICU) of the Prime Minister's Department and initial assistance from Petronas.

In addition to financial assistance, victims are also receiving counselling support at the Local Social Support Centre established at the temporary evacuation centre (PPS) there.

Minister of Women, Family and Community Development Datuk Seri Nancy Shukri said that a total of 253 victims have received counselling assistance at the Local Social Support Centre at the PPS.

Housing and Local Government Minister Nga Kor Ming is also reported to be meeting the Prime Minister today to discuss the best formula to assist the victims.

The Ministry of Health further informed that 41 out of the total 149 victims involved in this tragedy are still receiving treatment at hospitals and clinics. Of this number, 19 victims are being treated in general wards of government hospitals, while 22 are receiving care at private health facilities.

Inspector-General of Police Tan Sri Razarudin Husain, meanwhile, said that aside from criminal elements and negligence, which are among the focuses of police investigation, other factors are also being considered in efforts to identify the cause of the incident, including the possibility of underground soil movement at the location.– BERNAMA

"Sumbangan ini sedikit-sebanyak dapat membantu mengurangkan beban mangsa dan keluarga mereka yang terjejas akibat tragedi itu, terutama umat Islam yang sedang menyambut hari raya Aidilfitri.

"Walaupun tiada kehilangan nyawa namun kemusnahan harta benda sangat besar. Kerajaan Madani, kerajaan negeri dan agensi berkaitan berusaha untuk membantu menyelesaikan masalah ini," katanya.

Jangan pinggirkan OKU semasa meraikan lebaran

HARI Raya Aidilfitri adalah simbol kesyukuran, kemeriahan, dan kekeluargaan. Namun, bagi Orang Kurang Upaya (OKU) dan keluarga mereka, perayaan ini seringkali dikelilingi cabaran yang mungkin mengasingkan mereka.

Menurut Jabatan Kebajikan Masyarakat (JKM),seramai 664,063 OKU berdaftar di Malaysia sehingga 2023.

Manakala Pertubuhan Kesihatan Sedunia WHO) menganggarkan secara purata 12-15% jumlah penduduk sesebuah negara tergolong dalam kategori OKU disebabkan pelbagai faktor dan risiko.

Ini menunjukkan kepentingan inklusiviti OKU semasa Hari Raya mahupun semasa semua musim perayaan utama dan peranan masyarakat dalam menyantuni mereka.

Juga, strategi ibu bapa untuk mendidik serta memperkasakan anak serta ahli keluarga mereka yang berstatus OKU melalui advokasi.

Hari Raya dan musim perayaan sering melibatkan suasana bising, rumah terbuka yang sesak, dan interaksi sosial yang intensif. Bagi OKU, terutama mereka dengan autisme atau gangguan deria, keadaan ini boleh mencetuskan tekanan.

Kajian Universiti Kebangsaan Malaysia (2020) mendapati 65% keluarga OKU mengelak menghadiri majlis kerana risiko sensory overload.

Selain itu, halangan fizikal seperti tangga di rumah tradisional dan sikap masyarakat yang kurang memahami turut menyukarkan penyertaan OKU.

Peranan Masyarakat: Langkah Praktikal Menyantuni OKU

1.Persekitaran Deria Mesra OKU

Masyarakat boleh mencipta ruang "zon tenang" di rumah terbuka untuk OKU yang memerlukan rehat.

Contohnya, komuniti di Singapura mengadakan rumah terbuka "senyap" semasa perayaan, dibantu oleh pertubuhan seperti Autism Resource Centre.

Di Malaysia, inisiatif seperti Program Hari Raya Inklusif oleh OKU Sentral menyarankan penggunaan lampu redup dan mengurangkan bunyi kuat.

2. Aksesibiliti Fizikal

Menurut Konvensyen mengenai Hak OKU (CRPD) yang diratifikasi Malaysia pada 2010, aksesibiliti adalah hak asasi.

Masyarakat boleh menyediakan laluan tanpa berhalangan di pintu masuk rumah dan lauan ke ruang tamu, atau menggunakan kerusi tambahan sebagai alternaf.

Perkara ini termasuklah kesediaan semua pihak untuk peka dan menyediakan penyesuaian munasabah bagi membolehkan semua yang ada dapat meraikan musim perayaan dengan gembira dan harmoni denagn turut mengambil kira kemudahan ahli keluaraga juga tetamu yang berstatus OKU.

Data JKM (2022) menunjukkan hanya 30% rumah OKU di Malaysia diubahsuai untuk aksesibiliti, menekankan perlunya kesedaran awam.

3.Pendidikan Sosial

Menggalakkan interaksi inklusif seperti melibatkan OKU dalam aktiviti sesuai, dengan suasana hari raya dan tahap keupayaan OKU yang terlibat sama ada sebagai sebahagian tuan rumah atau rombongan yang berziarah.

Program kesedaran yang dimulakan di sekolah dan tempat kerja ibu bapa atau individu OKU turut menampakkan kesan positif. Kajian UNESCO (2021) menunjukkan program kesedaran di sekolah mampu mengurangkan stigma terhadap OKU sebanyak 40%.

Ibu Bapa sebagai Agen Advokasi

Ibu bapa anak OKU memikul tanggungjawab besar untuk mendidik masyarakat. Antara strategi yang boleh diusahakan adalah dengan memberitahu ahli keluarga tentang keperluan anak dan ahli keluarga yang terlibat seperti meminta mereka mengurangkan bunyi kuat jika terdapat ciri sensitif deria.

Komunikasi berhemah dan berkesan diharapkan dapat membina pengalaman berharga ahli keluarga bersama dalam menyantuni OKU. Para ibu bapa juga boleh berkongsi infografik atau video tentang cara berinteraksi dengan OKU.

Para Ibubapa juga digalakkan menyertai kommuniti dan persatuan yang berkaitan dengan kategori OKU anak dan ahli keluarga untuk sama-sama memberi dan mendapatkan sokongan dan sumber untuk advokasi.

Kajian melalui Journal of Disability Studies (2022) membuktikan ibu bapa yang aktif dalam NGO lebih berjaya membina empati komuniti.

Persatuan-persatuan ini lazim menyediakan sumber dan informasi dalam pelbagai format untuk menyokong aktiviti advokasi dan pemerkasaan komuniti OKU.

Hari Raya dan Musim Perayaan sebagai Platform Perubahan

Perayaan adalah masa ideal untuk mempromosikan inklusiviti kerana ia melibatkan semua lapisan masyarakat.

Di Jepun, festival tempatan menyediakan penterjemah bahasa isyarat, manakala di India, perayaan Deepavali diadaptasi dengan permainan inklusif.

Di Malaysia, kempen "Raya Untuk Semua" oleh Kementerian Pembangunan Wanita pada 2023 berjaya menarik 10,000 peserta, termasuk 2,000 OKU, menunjukkan potensi besar perayaan sebagai medium advokasi.

Hari Raya dan musim perayaan bukan sekadar meraikan tradisi, tetapi peluang emas untuk membina masyarakat yang lebih inklusif dan berempati.

Dalam konteks ini, suasana kemeriahan yang merentasi agama, budaya, dan generasi menjadi medan efektif untuk mendidik masyarakat tentang kepelbagaian keupayaan.

Contohnya, di Jepun, Obon Festival (festival menyambut roh nenek moyang) menyediakan penterjemah bahasa isyarat dan papan maklumat bertulisan Braille, membolehkan OKU pendengaran dan penglihatan turut serta dalam ritual penting ini.

Langkah ini bukan sahaja memudahkan akses, tetapi menunjukkan bahawa penglibatan OKU dalam masyarakat adalah hak, bukan keistimewaan.

Di India, semasa Deepavali, komuniti setempat memperkenalkan permainan inklusif seperti rangoli (seni corak berwarna) yang diadaptasi untuk kanak-kanak dengan palsi serebrum menggunakan alat bantu khas.

Aktiviti ini menggalakkan interaksi antara OKU dan bukan OKU, lantas menghindari stigma. Kajian oleh Indian Journal of Community Psychology (2022) mendapati 78% peserta bukan OKU melaporkan peningkatan pemahaman tentang cabaran harian OKU selepas menyertai program seumpama ini.

Di Malaysia, kempen "Raya Untuk Semua" wajar dilaksanakan bukan sekadar mengadakan rumah terbuka, tetapi merangka aktiviti berstruktur seperti:

1. Sesi Bercerita Inklusif: OKU dan keluarga mereka berkongsi pengalaman melalui platform interaktif, membantu masyarakat memahami keperluan unik mereka.

2. Bazaar Mesra OKU: Gerai jualan dikendalikan oleh usahawan OKU dengan bantuan relawan, mempromosikan kemandirian ekonomi sambil membina keyakinan masyarakat terhadap keupayaan OKU.

3. Simulasi Gangguan Deria: Pengunjung diajak mengalami simulasi sensory overload (seperti memakai fon telinga dengan bunyi bising) untuk merasai cabaran OKU autistik.

Kempen seperti ini mampu mewujudkan ruang interaksi dengan menggunakan pendekatan "belajar melalui pengalaman" (experiential learning) lebih berkesan dalam menanam empati berbanding ceramah konvensional.

Gabungan teknologi dan seni boleh dimanfaatkan untuk memperluas impak dan meningkatkan empati. Contohnya, penggunaan augmented reality (AR) untuk mensimulasikan pengalaman OKU dalam aktiviti tradisi seperti menyediakan hidangan Raya.

Di Sweden, projek Empathy Mirror menggunakan AR untuk menunjukkan bagaimana individu dengan disleksia melihat tulisan, menarik perhatian 500,000 pengguna dalam tempoh sebulan.

Di Malaysia, inisiatif seperti "Raya Tanpa Sempadan" oleh Persatuan OKU Johor menggunakan aplikasi mudah alih untuk mengajar bahasa isyarat asas semasa kunjungan rumah, merapatkan komunikasi dan meningkatkan empati melambangkan iklusiviti.

Selain itu, kerjasama strategik dengan influencer media sosial mampu menyemarakkan mesej inklusiviti.

Sebagai contoh inisiatif kempen #RayaBersamaOKU menampilkan kisah kegembiraan OKU menyambut hari raya dengan kasih sayang keluarga dan masyarakat sekaliling dengan penglibatan OKU dari pelbagai bidang termasuk dalam seni dan keusahawanan.

Pendekatan ini bukan sahaja meningkatkan kesedaran, tetapi turut mengubah naratif masyarakat daripada melihat OKU sebagai "penerima bantuan" kepada "agen perubahan".

Perkara ini boleh dijayakan dengan penglibatan dan sokongan pelbagai pihak yang sedar OKU juga boleh menjadi ahli masyarakat yang menyumbang kepada pembangunan Malaysia yang kita cintai jika ruang yang dan peluang yang tepat dan bersesuaian diberikan.

Peluang ini harus dimanafaatkan semua pihak dan lapisan masyarakat. Musim perayaan adalah detik di mana nilai kemanusiaan dan kekitaan berada di puncaknya.

Dengan merangka aktiviti yang menggabungkan pendidikan, pengalaman langsung dengan penglibatan OKU dalam aktiviti berziarah dan teknologi, masyarakat bukan sahaja dapat "meraikan" OKU, tetapi secara proaktif membina dunia yang mengiktiraf kepelbagaian sebagai kekuatan.

Inklusiviti OKU adalah kewajipan moral masyarakat yang harus di lihat sebagai pelaburan untuk masyarakat harmoni. Dengan langkah praktikal, kesedaran melalui pendidikan dan sokongan kepada ibu bapa, Hari Raya boleh menjadi pemangkin perubahan kerana semua insan layak untuk bergembira dan merasa diraikan.

COMMENT | Don't sweep child marriage under the carpet

COMMENT | I must laud former MP Kasthuri Patto for reminding Malaysians that child marriage still persists in our country despite being a hot topic of discussion during the first Pakatan Harapan administration.

As a young female lawyer from Sabah I would like to echo her call for the Women, Family and Community Development Ministry to table a progress report on the National Strategy Plan in Handling the Causes of Child Marriage.

While the demand for transparency is commendable, the bigger issue remains—why are we still tolerating child marriage at all? The government's slow and fragmented approach to reform is failing to protect vulnerable children, and urgent, decisive action is needed before more lives are irreversibly affected.

Yes, we have made incremental progress in reducing child marriage numbers but that does not change the fact that it remains legal in many states. Reports and strategies may give the illusion of action, but they mean little if children continue to be married off due to legal loopholes, economic hardships, and societal pressures.

The time for gradual reform is over—it is time for Malaysia to impose an outright ban on child marriage with no exceptions.

Incremental progress not enough

The plan, introduced in 2020, was supposed to tackle the root causes of child marriage. While it outlines education programmes, poverty alleviation measures, and awareness campaigns, its effectiveness remains highly questionable.

The plan was mooted when Dr Wan Azizah Wan Ismail was helming the women's ministry and Hannah Yeoh was her deputy. Since then the government has changed hands on three occasions and I wonder if a lack of continuity is to blame for a lack of linear progress.

Statistics showing declines in child marriage applications in certain states do not reflect a nationwide success as many states continue to permit it under existing religious and customary laws.

Former women, family and community development minister Dr Wan Azizah Wan Ismail

The reality is that other countries, including several Muslim-majority nations, have successfully enacted outright bans on child marriage. Neighbours Indonesia raised the minimum marriage age for girls to 19 in 2019, despite facing similar cultural and religious considerations.

If Indonesia can do it, why is Malaysia dragging its feet?

Under existing laws, Muslim girls can marry as young as 16 with a judge's permission, and non-Muslims can do so with the approval of the chief minister or menteri besar. This patchwork legal framework allows child marriage to persist despite growing awareness of its harms.

Yet, many Muslim-majority nations, including Saudi Arabia, Egypt, and Bangladesh, have taken steps to curb or eliminate child marriage by raising the legal age of marriage to 18 or higher. This proves that religious and cultural considerations do not have to be barriers to legal reform.

Children become vulnerable

The consequences of child marriage are well-documented, yet the government continues to treat the issue as a policy debate rather than an ongoing human rights violation.

Child brides are at significantly higher risk of domestic violence, early pregnancy complications, and mental health struggles. Many are pulled out of school, trapping them in cycles of poverty and dependency.

Instead of prioritising protection and enforcement, I am sorry to say that the government's approach remains reactive—monitoring numbers rather than implementing a clear legal ban.

How many more child brides must endure abuse and lost opportunities before Malaysia enforces the change it claims to support?

Education and community engagement are necessary to shift mindsets, but legal change must come first. It is only when child marriage is completely outlawed that societal attitudes will begin to align with modern human rights standards.

I implore our minister Nancy Shukri to take bold action on this matter.

Economic solutions

Poverty is one of the strongest drivers of child marriage. Many families marry off their daughters because they believe it provides financial security or reduces their economic burden. This is why tackling the root economic causes of child marriage is crucial in any effort to eradicate it.

However, existing financial aid programmes in Malaysia do not go far enough. Many vulnerable families still lack access to sustained economic support, education subsidies, and vocational training opportunities that could provide alternatives to early marriage.

The government must implement stronger financial support initiatives, particularly for rural and marginalised communities, ensuring that no child is married off due to economic desperation.

Most importantly, child protection should not be subject to debate or gradual reform. It is a fundamental human right. Malaysia must stop compromising on this issue and take an unequivocal stand against child marriage once and for all.

A country's commitment to human rights is measured by how it protects its most vulnerable members. Malaysia cannot claim to prioritise children's rights while still permitting child marriage in any form.

The time for discussions and reports is over—it is time for Malaysia to take decisive, irreversible action. The longer we wait, the more children will pay the price.
